NATIONAL FEEDER & STOCKER CATTLE SUMMARY - WEEK ENDING 03/12/2010

Compared to last week, feeder and stocker cattle sold steady to 3.00 higher as buyers continue to raise the bar for feedlot replacements as well as grazing-type cattle. Demand remains very good, but there was a noticeable absence of the sharply higher instances noted for thinner-type stockers as these types have now reached consistently high price levels across the country. Several large volume auction markets reported opening sales not quite reaching last week's levels but seeing the market gain momentum through the day and into the evening hours on heavy offerings. These are good demand signs of a wide buying base being forced to push price levels late in the sale to complete orders, long after the market should have been established and order sources had been contacted several times. This week there was a significant increase in the available supply of cattle in the weight class and condition for commercial feedlots as a huge movement of wheat cattle made their way off Southern Plains fields. Mid-March is frustrating for wheat backgrounders as they are forced off pastures just as the forage and the cattle are starting to recover from the long hard winter. West Texas and Oklahoma have enjoyed favorable weather patterns of late as country roads are now readily passable and sellers can move their cattle to market, with nearly 25,000 head this week just between the Oklahoma National Stockyards and OKC West in El Reno. Further north into the Northern Plains and the Midwest, snowstorms have given way to the rainy season and conditions are totally saturated as even the rocks are starting to turn soft. This mud bog has arrived just as the spring calving season is hitting full swing and cow/calf producers are struggling to save weak calves born to winter stressed cows. Fed cattle prices moved higher this week as feedyard managers showed their staying power by holding off until Friday afternoon for price levels that finally have most pens turning a profit. Direct fed cattle sales were 2.00-3.00 higher from 94.00-95.00 in the southern feedlot areas, while the northern lots traded from 91.00-93.00 with packers not wanting to pay for the mud the cattle carry with them to the scales. This week's reported auction volume included 53 percent over 600 lbs and 44 percent heifers.
